WRITTEN STATEMENT

Responses to the following questions must be completed and typed, single spaced, if possible. Please attach your typed responses. Each response to each question must not exceed one full page. The written statement is important in the evaluation of your application. In addition to considering the content of your statements, the faculty will evaluate your ability to express your ideas in written communication. Grammar, spelling and other writing mechanics are important here. At least as important are how you frame your ideas, the depth of your discussion of the influences on your thinking and the reading and experiences that inform your responses to these questions.

Questions for applicants to all programs

1. What are your professional goals and how do you envision doctoral experiences supporting and/or relevant to achieving those goals?
2. What previous professional and personal experiences encouraged you to apply to this doctoral program?
3. Please explain what readings, academic studies or specific ideas have contributed to your current understandings as a professional. How do you strive to enact these understandings in your professional work?

Additional questions for Curriculum and Social Inquiry.

4. In your view how does curriculum as practiced and experienced in schools or other educational settings interact with social, cultural or historical forces and influences?
5. What are your thoughts on the role of educators as professionals actively working toward social changes that create justice and equality in social institutions? In what ways have you used activism in your life?

Additional questions for Disability and Equity in Education.

4. In your view how does disability as experience and responded to in schools or other educational settings interact with social, cultural or historical forces and influences?
5. What are your thoughts on the role of educators as professionals actively working toward social changes that create justice and equality in social institutions? In what ways have you used activism in your life?

Additional questions for Educational Psychology and Reading and Language.
